The NEW YORK HERALD remarks:—
"So perfect and artistic were the pictures that the house clamored wildly for each of them a second time. Indeed, when the living statues of the Shaughraun and Rip Van Winkle were presented the curtain lowered upon each of them before the audience were wholly satisfied. Every available seat was occupied."

READ THIS PROM THE NEW YORK CLIPPER OP SATURDAY. NOVEMBER 27.

A positive novelty, which achieved marked success, was introduced upon the variety stage at the Olympic Theatre during the past week. It was styled the Islipution Circa. A large ring had been constructed upon the stage, and thorein Masters Leotard and Harry Carlo performed a Double Menage Act, mounted upon small Poules. The riders were high slik hats, black vervet coats, light colored knee breeches and top boots, and in appearance were beau ideals of lilipution gentlemen. Both evinced much skill in managing their diminutive steeds, which were well broken. Among other feats they loaped hurdles and one of the ponies was driven upon a "sec-aw," or a plank supported in the centre by a trestic and raised some ten feet from the stage. The pony was driven from end to end and afterward paused in the centre, and by the alternate movement of its fore and hind legs caused the plank to oscillate. Subsequently the other pony and its rider mounted one end while the first pony stood near the centre and the possition by approaching and receding from the centre. Luttle Ducrow, a tiny midget, then rode a trick pony and assisted in making him perform a number of difficult feats. But the triumph of the evening was achieved by Master Leotard, who, attired as a jockey—wearing high boots—rode an excellent bareback act and wound up with a four-pony act, performing all the difficult feats usually accomplished by full-grown equestrians in a four-horse act. The ponies were admirably trained and changed their positions so promptly that no balk occurred. The rider displayed a deal of dash and spirit, was graceful in his positions and deserves the highest praise for his peats and the effect of his feats can be best described by likening them to those of as killed equestrian when seen through an opera glass when used in a reversed position. William Carlo, of his Carlo Hrothers, acted as ringma THE BEST COMPANY IN AMERICA.
